Same Name.

CONVICTION A SURPRISE

Appeal to Be Taken in Rattled Door of Home.

THOUGHT IT WAS HOTEL

Elderly Defendant Insists He Shot Because Sheriff Told Him It Was His Right.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
NEWTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—Judge Allan R. Shay now faces the duty of sentencing his boyhood chum, Allan R. Young, 65, who was convicted to-day of assault with intent to kill, in connection with the shooting of Frank McGrath of Port Jervis on the night of July 24, 1921, when the latter went to Young's house at Branchville to ask the way to Newton. The jury was out forty-five minutes.

The maximum penalty which Young can get for the shooting, through which McGrath lost his left leg, is a fine of $3,000 or imprisonment for two to four years or both. The minimum is eight years in prison.

A civil case against Young for $75,000 damages was thrown out of court last March and the verdict therefore was a surprise. Young did not wait to hear it, leaving court with his wife and friends when the jury went out and saying only:

"I'm not worried."

Brought Up Together.
McGrath, the complainant, was not present when the verdict was returned. Judge Shay also had left for home. It is not known when Young will appear for sentence, but his attorney, Robert H. McCarter of Newark, intends to appeal.

Both Judge Shay and Young were brought up in the same town and both were named Allan R. after Allan Rosenkrantz, a beloved farmer of the Kittany Range. During the trial neither spoke to the other, but apparently did not avoid each other.

The prosecutor, Theodore Dennis, who summed up on the fact that Young admitted firing to hit McGrath, and then went to bed without attempting to aid

First Chinese Aviator Qualifies Here as Pilot

HARRY CHIN, a Chinese, who conducts a restaurant in Manhattan, qualified as an aviation pilot yesterday at Curtiss Field at Mineola, and will receive a license to fly. He is said to be the first Chinese to receive such a license in this country, although many Chinese are aviators in their own land.

Chin said that he intended to go to China and embark in the passenger carrying business with an old friend. The plane in which he made his tests was a gift of the Curtiss company. His license will be issued by the National Aero-association.

him or see what damage his bullet had done, was pleased by the verdict. McCarter, in summing up, had contended that Young's house was his castle and that he had justification for any precaution when the three men approached his house, there being no police in Branchville.

McGrath also assailed the character of Chin, introducing as a witness Charles A. Hill, a detective sergeant of the New York Police Department, who told of looking up McGrath, who had lived somewhere in Thirty-eighth street, New York, and finding that both he and his brother had police records.

Had Been Told to Shoot.

Young, on the stand, told of seeing three men come to his house after he had fired a shot to "scare" the first man, who appeared to be working at the door to get into the house. He said that some time before the shooting he had telephoned for advice to the Sheriff in Newton and was told: "Wait, shoot out for neighbors and friends, but never mind any strangers. Pull the trigger."

The Sheriff corroborated him. Mrs. Young told of hearing a growl from their dog and seeing a man working to open the front door. She called her husband. When he knelt at the stair head to shoot, she said: "For heaven's sake, don't hurt the dog." After the second shot had struck McGrath she told her husband: "You have hurt him." Whereupon they went back to bed and left the wounded man to the care of his companions. Young's testimony drew much laughter, especially when he said:

"I sleep with one eye open and one foot on the floor."

The Young house is one of the sights of Branchville, its porch being illuminated by three large lights. Over the main door is a large gold sign which reads: "Rosedale," as Young grows roses. McGrath and his companions said that because of the decorations and sign they thought the place was a hotel.

SUBSIDY BILL TIEUP MAY END TOMORROW

Chairman Expects Early Break in Committee Deadlock on Report.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—A report that

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—

Another futile effort was made to-day to break the deadlock in the Senate Commerce Committee over the ship subsidy bill. Two sessions were held behind closed doors, and, at the final adjournment, Chairman Jones (Wash.) said he hoped to make a report to the Senate Saturday.

He explained that, while tentative agreements were reached on many important provisions of the House bill, the committee, after taking up the Madden amendment, the chief subject of controversy, again passed it over.

President Harding has registered with the committee a strong protest against the Madden amendment, which limits Government aid to annual appropriations by Congress. Three Republican Senators (McNary, Oregon; Willis, Ohio, and Lenroot, Wisconsin) are standing firm in their opposition to that section of the Administration bill which would establish a revolving fund to insure a subsidy to ship owners for a period of ten years.

Upon leaving the committee room, Senator Calder (N. Y.) indicated the compromise for the Madden amendment submitted by these three Senators may be agreed upon. It provides that no increase be made to the original amendment allocated to a shipping company from the revolving fund without the direct authorization of Congress.

Among sections of the bill tentatively approved by the committee were these:

Compelling one-half of the immigrants to this country to be brought in American owned vessels.

Providing an interest rate of 4% per cent. for loans to private shipowners.

Exempting from income taxes the profits of Government shipowners if they use their earnings for the construction of ships.

Exempting from taxation the amount obtained from the sale of ships by owners if the money is to be used in the purchase of new ships.

Providing that no ship be sold for less than the cost of reconstruction.

Senator McNary submitted a series of amendments proposed by the Portland (Ore.) Chamber of Commerce, which he intends to support.

Members of the committee doubt if President Harding will give his approval to the McNary-Willis-Lenroot compromise proposal.

Should the bill be reported out of the committee within the next few days it will be placed immediately before the Senate as the unfinished business.

That body in fact has little else before it. The opposition to the bill is preparing to carry on a long and bitter fight on the floor. The insurgents are linking up with the Democrats and plan to carry on an extended filibuster if necessary to force the matter over to the next session, when they feel certain they will have enough votes to kill it.

Friends and foes of the bill are claiming the support of Senator Couzens (Mich.) who took the oath of office to-day as the successor to Truman H. Newberry, resigned. Senator Couzens refused to commit himself on the proposition, "until he had heard both sides."

POSSE BACK IN MEXICO SEEKING MRS. PHILLIPS

Returns on Report Hammer
Slayer Was Seen.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—A report that Clara Phillips, escaped hammer murderess, was seen at a hotel at Tijuana, Lower California, on her way into the interior of Mexico late to-day led Sheriff William I. Traeger and his posse on a new chase across the border.

The search to-day took in the western half of the country, but without avail. Early to-day Sheriff Traeger and a posse made search at a resort near Tijuana.

No trace of the fugitive was found. Inquiries showed Mrs. Phillips was not on eastbound trains on which she had been reported.

Motor boats along the coast were called upon to keep a lookout for the woman. A telegram to-day from Sheriff Pinhook at Ogden, Utah, stated he was positive Mrs. Phillips was aboard a train which passed through Ogden shortly after midnight.

That train and one other were searched at Laramie, Wyo., but no one answering the description of Mrs. Phillips was found.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Miss Elsie Coe and Miss Clara Hutchins of Baltimore were taken from the incoming Los Angeles Limited of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to-day by police seeking Mrs. Clara Phillips. They satisfied the police of their identity.

FIVE FREED IN LIQUOR DEATH.

ing the death from acute alcoholism on Tuesday of Mrs. Jennie Mazachak of 613 East Thirtieth street were yesterday discharged by Magistrate Frederick E. House in Homicide Court. On analysis the "whisky" Mrs. Mazachak drank was found to have been made of pure grain alcohol.
